Knew She Was Ugly.

The Duchess of Orleans, mother of the regent who governed France during the monarchy of Louis XV, was notorious for her ugliness. She wrote:

"From early youth I knew how ugly was and hated to have people look sharply at me. I never cared for dress, as I knew that diamonds and ornaments would only attract attention to me. Once Countess Solssons asked me why I never turned to look at a mirror in passing, as every other woman did. I told her I could not endure the sight of my own face.

"As a girl I must have been very ugly. I had little, blinking eyes, a pug nose and a big mouth with thick lips. My face was broad and fat and my figure short and stumpy. Nobody would have tolerated me except for my good

"Oh, that's all right. These ponles are too small ,and it's not right to make them haul me and my wife about-we are both big and heavy."

"What's your price?" "What's your idea of what you want to give?"

"Eight hundred dollars." "Well, my price is $1,500-not a cent

Mr. Clews told him there was no possibility of getting together, and they parted.

Mr. Huntington called again the next morning. "Ready to give $1,500 for those po-

"Well, you are the hardest man I ever dealt with," said he, "and I'm going to let you have them on one condition. You must give $25 to my coachman." "I don't know your coachman," objected Mr. Clews, "and it would be bribery to give any money to him."

Mr. Huntington. "I suppose you pay his wages regularly?" retorted the banker.

"Well, he ought to have $25," mused

"Yes, but he ought to get $25 out of this deal." "Then you give it to him," said Mr.

Clews. "That will leave $775 for the horses. With that he gave in, and thus, after fourteen days of haggling the horses were sold for $700 less than he started out to get for them. Mr. Clews smiled News.
